THE BIG PRIZE FIGHT.

Governor Culberson Again Asserts It Will Not Be Permitted.

WILL USE FORCE IF NECESSARY.

The Governor Advises Sheriff Cabell as to His Duty, and Refers the Sheriff's Query as to the Shooting Down of Citizens to the Attorney General.

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 24.—Governor Culberson makes public some correspondence between himself and Sheriff Cabell, of Dallas county, anent the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight. The correspondence was opened by Governor Culberson inquiring of the sheriff as to whether he intended to abide by the decision of Attorney General Crane holding the prize fighting law valid, and as to whether it was his intention to exercise all the powers invested in him to prevent the fight.

Sheriff Cabell's reply is that he will unhesitatingly discharge his duties. He cites, however, that the criminal statute defining prize fighting makes it a misdemeanor, and not a felony, and asks the governor if under such circumstance he would be justified in using such force as may be necessary, even if it requires the shooting down of citizens, and would the governor advise such proceeding.

In reply to Cabell's letter the governor says:

"While it is true that the prize fight at Dallas is not advertised to take place until October, the propriety of the public officers of the state taking action is obvious. It is proper that they should give notice at once of the firm purpose to enforce the law, that none may be deceived. The constitution, which is the supreme law of the state, makes it the duty of the governor to cause the laws to be faithfully executed. At the proper time what force may be necessary and deemed expedient to guard against failure will be used to prevent this proposed infraction of the laws of the state."

To Cabell's interrogatory as to whether the governor would sanction shooting down of citizens he very promptly replied that he would not attempt to answer that question, but would refer it to the attorney general for his legal opinion.

Denver's Hotel Death Roll Twenty-two.

DENVER, Aug. 24.—The list of dead in the Gumry hotel wreck stands at twenty-two, and this will probably be the total of the casualties. Of these three bodies remained unclaimed by friends. Rumors of missing people lack support, and the death roll will not be increased.

CARDINAL GIBBONS' RETURN.

The Catholic Prelate Speaks of His Visits to the Pope.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—After an absence of fifteen weeks Cardinal Gibbons returned from Europe yesterday on the Campania. A large delegation of Baltimore priests and laymen arrived here Thursday night in order to welcome the cardinal home, and a right royal welcome was extended to the cardinal and the other clergymen of the party, which included Bishop Foley of Detroit, and Archbishop Riordan, of San Francisco.

When seen by a representative of the Associated Press Cardinal Gibbons said:

"My visit to Rome had no special significance, as it is customary for us to visit the holy father every eight or ten years, or perhaps oftener. I had several audiences with Pope Leo, the last one being on June 29. The holy father, although a little more stooped, looked much better and stronger than when I saw him last, eight years ago. He is a most remarkable man for his age, which is 86 years.

"He takes deep interest in America and Americans, and frequently expressed his admiration for our political institutions. He sent no special message to Americans through me, nor is there any reason for his doing so at the present. He wrote me a beautiful letter recommending summer schools and commending the Catholic University of America.

The cardinal said that he enjoyed his trip very much, and that he had felt his health greatly benefitted by it. He left Rome on July 2 and traveled by slow stages through the Tyrol, Bavaria, Wurtemburg, Holland, Belgium, France, England and Ireland.

The cardinal did not care to express himself on the question of the continental Sunday. He left for Baltimore at 11:30 this forenoon.

DESPERADOES AT BAY.

Government Marshals After the Christian Gang of Escaped Convicts.

ARDMORE, I. T., Aug. 24.—An encounter between the Christian gang which broke jail at Oklahoma City seven months ago, and have since added to their numbers, and a posse of deputy marshals in charge of Ben Coode, occurred shortly after daylight six miles west of Purcell, in which United States Marshal Hecker was shot, but how serious his injuries were cannot be determined. Hecker was shot by Bill Christian. The outlaws fled.

United States Marshal Stowe has received the following telegram from United States Commissioner Thompson at Purcell:

"Send all deputies possible on the first train. Have the Christian gang surrounded six miles west of here. Fighting this morning. Deputy Hecker and Bob Christian both shot, and made quick work necessary."

This information created great excitement. Two strong posses of Marshal Stowes', one in charge of Commissioner Bibbons, of the Paris court, were organized, and left at 10 o'clock to join the posse. Late advices from the scene are to the effect that marshals are in close pursuit, and the outlaws' capture is sure.

Probably Murdered by Tramps.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 24.—The body of an unknown man was found in a cornfield a mile and a half west of Tyrone yesterday. A small fire burning near by indicated that tramps had spent the night there. The head of the man was covered with blood, and a mark on the head indicated that he had been struck with a blunt instrument. A book, printed in Hungarian, found near the body had the name Hudak Mehaly on the fly leaf. A blackjack was also found near the corpse. The clothes had been partially removed, as if in a search for money.

A PROTEST FROM SPAIN.

The Meetings of Cubans in This Country Vigorously Criticized.

MADRID, Aug. 24.—In regard to the news that Estrada and other Cuban insurgent leaders are allowed to hold a meeting in a Forester hall, "with the flag of the Cuban republic flying alongside the stars and stripes, calminating Spain, her army and Cuba, collecting money and recruiting men for rebellion," as announced in a dispatch received here, the Imparcial says:

"The government of America and its representatives may think as they like of this mode of understanding that neutrality to which they are bound, but outside of them there is no man who supports fair play who will not censure the conduct of the government of the United States. If they continue to authorize such meetings, in which Spain and her army are insulted and funds collected for expeditions against us, our course is clear, and Europe shall be made acquainted with how the United States understand their international obligations. Deeds and not words, acts and not promises are what we want. Let us sacrifice everything rather than the honor of our country. Let us reach the most extreme disasters, if such is our lot, but let us not either be deceived or degraded by any weakness."

The semi-official El Nacional says that the government has decided to dispatch 100,000 men and all the ships necessary to blockade the island of Cuba, and crush the rebellion during the first months of 1896.

General Salcedo has arrived at Corunna. He states that it is only a question of time and weather when Captain Martinez Campos will "sweep the rebels into the sea."

Maximo Gomez, the insurgent leader, it is stated, has issued a proclamation sentencing a number of well known persons to death.

A Missing Clergyman.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 24.—Rev. Milner Morris, of Niantic, Conn., has mysteriously disappeared while on his way from his home to Montrose, this state, where he was to be installed as pastor of the Montrose Baptist church tomorrow. He telegraphed Thursday morning that he would surely be there. A committee was at the station to meet the afternoon train upon which he wired he was coming, but he was not among the passengers. The police have learned that a man answering the description of the missing clergyman had left the train in this city at 12:37 Thursday afternoon. Later a clerical looking man with a ticket for Montrose boarded the 6:07 train, but instead of changing cars for Montrose paid his fare on to Binghamton, N. Y.

Saved from Suicide.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Two young women, one named De Clare, and the other unknown, called at the boarding house of Mrs. Ada Pim, on Melmoth street, and inquired whether Elizabeth Crompton, aged 35 years, a boarder, had committed suicide during the night. The door of Miss Crompton's room was forced open, and she was found unconscious in her bed, a handkerchief tied firmly over her mouth, the gas turned on and every aperture stuffed with wool. Two notes were found. In one she bequeathed all her worldly goods to Miss De Clare, and in the other begged that no one should mourn for her. It was learned that a few nights ago the two women visited Miss Crompton and discussed her approaching death. She will recover.

Shot Down by an Officer.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 24.—At Winchester J. C. Arledge was shot and killed by Officer McClaren. The officer had notified Arledge to close his saloon, as the hour for closing required by the city law had arrived. The saloon was closed, but some parties remained outside, while others asked for admission. By some means a glass in a show window was broken, and Arledge shot through the window into the saloon. Officer McClaren returned the fire. Arledge fell dead. McClaren was shot through the leg and ear.

Big Tannery Destroyed by Fire.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 24.—At 7:30 last evening a fire broke out in the Irvona Tannery company's extensive buildings. The town being poorly equipped with fire apparatus, the tannery was completely destroyed, and the flames communicated to the shed, which contained 30,000 tons of bark. At 10 o'clock the fire was spreading through the bark shed, but on the arrival of a fire engine from this city soon after that hour it was gotten under control. The loss will probably reach $75,000.

Uncle Sam Will Protect the Indians.

Glass Workers Accept a Compromise.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 24.—The prescription department, the most important branch of the flint glass workers' scale, was settled by the workers agreeing to an advance of 4 per cent., instead of 9½ per cent. demanded. It is intended by the manufacturers to start their factories on Sept. 15, which is a month later than they are usually started. The wages of about 8,000 men are affected by the settlement.

Two Killed in an Excursion Riot.

MIDDLESBOROUGH, Ky., Aug. 24.—News has just reached here of a desperate fight on the Knoxville, Cumberland Gap and Louisville railroad, in which two men were killed, and Captain Wynne, superintendent of the road, was knocked in the head. A negro excursion of 1,000 people were en route to Cumberland Gap, when Captain Wynne and the other two men attempted to quell a row.

OUR DASHING DEFENDER

EXCEEDS THEIR EXPECTATIONS.

Mr. Herreschoff Declares That the Racer Has Not Proved a Disappointment in Any Way, and Will be Prepared to Defend America's Cup.

BRISTOL, R. I., Aug. 24.—The many rumors and reports which have been printed and circulated by other means in many quarters during the past few days regarding the condition of the yacht Defender were answered last evening by a positive statement made to an Associated Press reporter by President John B. Herreschoff, of the Herreschoff Manufacturing company, in which he not only denied emphatically that there was any truth in these reports, but declared that the boat had more than met the highest expectations of her builders.

The several recent accidents which have happened to the Defender, including the fact that she has been aground twice since the unfortunate accident at the time of her launching, and her withdrawal last Tuesday from the race with the Gould boat, have led many people to believe that the designers and builders were sadly disappointed at the outcome of their labors. Although the Herreschoffs and members of the syndicate have been fully cognizant of public opinion, they have heretofore strenuously declined to make any denial. Mr. Herreschoff deplored the fact that such reports had found their way into print, and said that in many of the published stories there had not been a particle of truth.

"There is nothing the matter with the Defender, and never has been any serious trouble with her," said Mr. Herreschoff. "The boat was as sound as a dollar when taken off of the ways, and is just as sound today. The reports that her hull has been wrenched either on the ways or in running aground, or in any of the trial spins or races, are unqualifiedly without foundation.

"The breaking of the first spar and many of the slight accidents," Mr. Herreschoff continued, "were unavoidable, and were not unexpected in a new boat. The breaking of the gaff was the only serious accident that has occurred. Aside from this everything has stood as firmly as it could be expected to stand on a new boat."

"Last Tuesday, in the race," Mr. Herreschoff went on, "it became apparent that the mast stepped after the previous accident was scarcely strong enough for the new rigging, and especially in the weather that prevailed at that time, and in order to prevent any possible accident the Defender withdrew and was brought back to Bristol that she might be thoroughly overhauled and have everything done that could be done to anticipate any future accident, especially after she should be rigged with her steel boom and gaff.

"As soon as the new mast is put in position the steel boom will be put on, and the Defender will then be ready to do her duty in protecting the America's cup from the Valkyrie III."

Mr. Herreschoff remarked in conclusion: "There is one thing that I want to make as impressive as possible, and that is that the Defender has more than met the highest expectations of her builders."

Chicago's Hospital Scandal Grows.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—The scandal arising from the death of patient Puick, at the Dunning hospital, has resulted in charges being preferred against the following: President Healy, Superintendent Morgan, Commissioner Ritter and Butcher Evans. It is charged against Healy and Morgan that they have appointed and retained employes at the Dunning asylum who have been bribed. Healy is further charged with violating the civil service law by "favoritism, incompetency and neglect of his official duties." The charge against Butcher Evans is soliciting of a bribe from the meat contractor, and Commissioner Ritter, it is alleged, took active part in the contract.

His Grace, the Duke, Arrives.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The Duke of Marlborough, who is but 24 years old, and is a son of the late duke who married Mrs. Hammersley, of this city, arrived on the Campania yesterday. He will stay in New York till after the yacht races. Incidentally he will visit Newport to be entertained by society, and then will make a tour of the continent. From the United States the Duke of Marlborough will go to Hawaii, Australia, Japan, China and the Indies. It is his intention to visit all the principal countries of the world before returning to England. The duke registered as "Charles Spencer" at his hotel.

Rockefeller, one of the two brothers who control the Standard Oil company, is engaged to marry Dr. David Hunter McAlpin, Jr., of this city, son of the millionaire tobacco manufacturer. LONDON, Aug. 24.—The Times' Berlin correspondent says that the supporters of the gold currency are jubilant at the statement made by Hon. A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury in the house of commons, to the effect that the English government will take no steps looking to an international bimetallic conference.

Three Killed in a Church Panic.

VIENNA, Aug. 24.—During the celebration of mass in a church at Rogonzo, Galicia, a panic was caused by the upsetting of a taper. During the confusion three persons were killed and many were injured.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Industrial Troubles Less Threatening and Prospects Good for Fall Trade.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The volume of business shrinks, as is natural in August, and the shrinkage seems rather larger than usual because transactions in July were somewhat inflated for that month. Some industries are doing more than ever before in August, and the prospects for fall trade is good in others, although much depends on the crops, and the outcome is less clear than speculators on either side are disposed to admit. Industrial troubles have not entirely ceased, but during the past week have become much less threatening.

It is certainly a relief to turn to the great industries, in which the enormous orders placed some weeks or months ago cause phenomenal activity for the season. In iron, notwithstanding some uneasiness because the output has greatly increased, heavy purchases by two leading companies have advanced the price of Bessemer steel fifty cents, and a new combination has raised galvanized barbed wire to $1.80, while combinations are being formed in wire rods and common wire, and advance in prices is expected.

Failures for the week have been 222 in the United States, against 234 for the same week last year, and 43 in Canada, against 33 last year.

Bradstreets' review says: The volume of general trade throughout the east, south, southwest and on the Pacific coast is no larger in volume. In fact, at several southern and eastern centers rather more of quiet is reported than a week ago. At western and central western points, with some exceptions, signs are conspicuous of the favorable influence on business of the prospectively enormous Indian corn crop and the very large harvest of spring wheat. At the east stimulating influences are found in the continued activity in leading industrial lines, notably iron and steel.

Race Horse Dies on the Track.

ROCHESTER, Aug 24.—While the Rochester meeting of the grand circuit was not a success financially, good sport was furnished, especially yesterday. In the 2.21 trot great excitement was caused by the death on the track of Comanche, owned by Mr. Curtis, of Fort Erie, and attached to Lon McDonald's string. The horse was coming down the finish in the last heat when he staggered and fell, McDonald jumping to save himself. A blood vessel was bursted and the animal died immediately. He was valued at $1,500.

Fatally Hurt in a Mine Cage.

PETERSBURG, Ills., Aug 24.—Eight miners started to work at 7 a. m. in Hilltop mine. The engineer had been in the habit of letting the cage drop nearly to the bottom, then catching it. This time the grippers failed to work, and five men had their legs broken and were injured internally, and will probably die. Three will certainly die. They are John Lamberger, Patrick Kelly and Gus Nelson.

Charged with Burning Her Sister.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 24.—Miss Lora Perkins was arrested on the charge of killing her sister, Mrs. Lola Hawkins, by setting her on fire on Aug. 9, for the sake of $7,000 life insurance. The warrant was sworn out by Dr. Todd, medical inspector of one of the insurance companies. It has been supposed that Mrs. Hawkins met her death by accidentally overturning a lamp.

Durant Will Testify.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—The prosecution in the Durant case is in fresh trouble over the business connections of Juror Nathan Crocker, who owns a rock quarry, and has been endeavoring to induce the board of supervisors to use material for concrete work from his quarry. Attorney Dickinson, of Durant's counsel, is also attorney for the majority in the board of supervisors. Durant will probably be a witness on his own behalf, this determination having been reached on account of Mrs. Leak's claiming to have seen Durant and Blanche Lamont enter the church together the day Blanche disappeared. It is believed at least six persons will corroborate Durant's alibi statement.

TO INTERVIEW WALLER

Representatives of France and Our Government Will Visit Him.

FRANCE WILL SOON RESPOND

To the Demand of Our Government for the Evidence in the Case on Which the Ex-Consul Was Tried and Sentenced to Twenty Years' Imprisonment.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Officials of the state department were gratified yesterday to learn that Ambassador Eustis had made a move in the matter of ex-Consul Waller, and had carried out a portion of the instructions which have been sent him. The department has felt that its efforts in this case have not been as ably seconded at Paris as they might have been, and Ambassador Eustis explains in his dispatch that the delay has been due to the absence of the minister of foreign affairs. The department believes that in a few days the French government will make some response to the requests made for the papers in the case of Mr. Waller.

Ambassador Eustis' telegram states that upon the return of the minister for foreign affairs to Paris, after an absence of some duration, he and Mr. Eustis had come to an understanding regarding the designation of deputies to be sent to Clairvaux and see Mr. Waller, who is confined at that place. Mr. Newton B. Eustis, the second secretary, and Mr. Alexander, the counsel of the embassy, were delegated by the ambassador, and all necessary orders issued to insure their access to the prisoner. They started on their errand yesterday.

The prison in which Mr. Waller is confined is 140 miles from Paris, and this will be the first opportunity that has been afforded to get a full and authentic statement from Mr. Waller, all previous statements from him since his confinement having come through indirect channels.

It is recognized at the department that the French government is not slow, but that the French people are inclined to be nettled at the course pursued by the Americans, as shown in the resentment felt because the commander of the Castine had failed to salute the French at Tamatave. It is thought that much may be made of this incident by the French in order to still further delay the settlement of the Waller case, but it is probable that the United States authorities will not allow the two things to be coupled, but will insist that the Waller case must be considered solely on its own merits.

The United States has not recognized the French protectorate over Madagascar, nor has it refused recognition. Consul Wetter, who is at Tamatave, is only acting consul in one sense, as the United States has never applied for nor received an equator from him. In advising the commander of the Castine not to recognize or salute the French, the department presumes that Mr. Wetter has taken the right course and knows what he is about, and will act upon that assumption until something to the contrary is learned.

The effect of this position of the consul and the commander of the Castine may have upon the Waller claim is altogether speculative. If French control is not recognized in the island, and in fact should be denied by the United States government, it would define clearly the issue and make the claim of Waller indisputable from an American view point, but it is said that such a position by the United States is not necessary to the establishment of the Waller claim if Mr. Waller received his concession from a de facto government.

Two Brooklyn Trolley Fatalities.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 24.—Two persons were killed by trolley cars in this city yesterday, the first, named John J. Read, a contractor, and the second, Ethel Denham, 2 years old. Mr. Read was driving a buggy across the tracks at Eighty-sixth street and Twenty-second avenue, when a car which was coming along rapidly, going down town, hit the buggy squarely. It was smashed to pieces, the horse released and Read cut and mangled. In fifteen minutes he was dead. The other victim of the trolley car, Ethel Denham, was crossing the street at Bergen and Smith streets. A girl 12 years old was leading her by the hand, and before they noticed it a car was upon them. Ethel was ground to death under the fender and wheels. The other child escaped.

Two More Gasoline Victims.

TRENTON, Aug. 24.—Mrs Patrick Cleary, who was badly burned by an explosion of gasoline on Wednesday while she was cooking dinner, died of her injuries yesterday. Last evening a gasoline stove which Mrs. C. Bullock was filling exploded, and her infant child, Myrtle, was so badly burned that it will die. Mrs. Bullock thinks she stepped upon a match, which ignited the gasoline fumes in the room.

Nearly the whole train passed over the dynamite before it exploded. The last coach, filled with passengers, was badly shattered, but no one was injured.

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

The Conductor Tells a Thrilling Tale of Danger on the Track.

"Yes," said the conductor, biting off the tip of a cigar and scratching a match on his leg. "I've seen a great deal of railroad life that's interesting and exciting in the 20 years that I've been twisting brakes and slamming doors for a living.

"I've seen all kinds of sorrow and all kinds of joy—seen the happy bridal couple starting out on their wedding tour with the bright and hopeful future before them, and the black robed mourner on her way to a new made grave wherein she must bury the idol of her lonely old heart.

"Wealth and pinching poverty ride on the same train, and the merry laugh of the joyous, healthy child is mingled with the despairing sigh of the aged. The great antipodes of life are familiar to the conductor, for every day the extremes of the world are meeting beneath his eyes.

"I've punched the ticket of many a blackleg and handled the passes of all of our most eminent deadheads. I don't know what walk of life is more crowded with thrilling incidents than mine."

"Ever have any smash ups?"

"Smash ups? Oh, yes, several of them. None, however that couldn't have been a good deal worse.

"There is one incident of my railroad life,' continued the conductor, running his tongue carefully over a broken place in the wrapper of his cigar, "that I never spoke of before to any one. It has caused me more misery and wretchedness than any one thing that ever happened to me in my official career.

"Sometimes, even now, after the lapse of many years, I awake in the night with the cold drops of agony on my face and the horrible nightmare upon me, with its terrible surroundings, as plain as on the memorable night it occurred.

"I was running extra on the Union Pacific for a conductor who was an old friend of mine and who had gone south on a vacation for his health.

"At about 7 30 o'clock, as near as I can remember, we were sailing along all comfortable one evening with a straight stretch of track ahead for 10 or 15 miles, running on time and everybody feeling tiptop, as overland travelers do who get acquainted with each other and feel congenial. All at once the train suddenly slowed down, ran in on an old siding and stopped.

"Of course I got out and ran ahead of the engine to see what the matter was. Old Thompson the engineer, had got down and was on the main track looking ahead to see where, twinkling along about six or seven miles down the road apparently, was the headlight of an approaching train. It was apparently 'wild' for nothing was due that we knew of at that hour.

"However, we had been almost miraculously saved from a frightful wreck by the engineer's watchfulness, and everybody went forward and shook old Thompson by the hand and cried and thanked him till it was the most affecting scene for a while that I ever witnessed. It was as though we had stopped on the very verge of a bottomless chasm, and everybody was laughing and crying at once, till it was a kind of a cross between a revival and a picnic.

"After we had waited about half an hour, I should say, for the blasted train to come up and pass us and apparently she was no nearer, a cold, clammy suspicion began to bore itself into my intellect. The more I thought of it the more unhappy I felt. I almost wished that I were dead. Cold streaks ran up my back followed by hot ones. I wanted to go home, where the prying eyes of the great throbbing world could not see me.

"I called Thompson to one side and said something to him. He swore softly to himself and kicked the ground and looked at the headlight still glimmering in the distance. Then he got on his engine and I yelled, 'All aboard!' In a few moments we were moving again, and the general impression was that the train ahead was sidetracked and waiting for us although there wasn't a side track within 20 miles except the one we had just left.

"It was never exactly clear to the passengers where we passed that wild train but I didn't explain it to them. I was too much engrossed with my sorrowful thoughts.

"I never felt my own inferiority so much as I did that night. I never so fully realized what a mere speck man is upon the bosom of the universe.

When I surveyed the starry vault of heaven and considered its illimitable space, where, beyond and stretching on and on forever, countless suns are placed as centers, around which solar systems are revolving in their regular orbits, each little world peopled perhaps with its teeming millions of struggling humanity, and with clear and mathematical precision of worlds revolving around these systems, till the mind is dazed and giddy with the mighty thought, and then when I compared all this universal magnificence, this brilliant aggregation of worlds and systems of worlds, with one poor groveling worm of the dust, only a little insignificant atom only a poor weak creature, failing, blind groping fool and coward, with my train peacefully reposing tucked in the gathering gloom and packets waiting for the planet Venus to pass on the main track, there was not a thing about the whole somber picture that has overshadowed my whole life and made me unhappy and wretched while others were gay.

"Sometimes old Thompson and myself meet at some liquid restaurant and silently take something in memory of our great sorrow, but never mention it. We never tear open the old rankling wound or laugh over the night we politely gave the main track to Venus while we stood patiently on the siding."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

GLADNESS.

A warmth of gold, all summer stored,
The goldenrod gives back,
And filled from sorghum's scantier hoard
Shines the sweet buttercup,
And from the singing of the breeze
And low, sweet sound of rain,
The little brook learns melodies
To sing them back again.

Forgotten all the cloudy sky
Of dark days overcast;
For flower hearts let bloom go by,
But hold the sunshine fast
And all year long the little burn,
Though wintry clouds be set,
Picks out the happy tunes to learn—
The sad goes to forget.
—Charles B. Going in St. Nicholas.

TWO LEAPS

One Was For Liberty and the Other Was For a Life.

"In passing by the criminal court building the other day," said Luther Larkin Mills, "I recalled, among my memories somehow connected with it, that of a remarkable leap for liberty.

"About 15 years ago I prosecuted a young fellow for the crime of burglary. He was convicted and sentenced to prison for a term of six years. After sentence, as he was being conveyed by a deputy sheriff from the courtroom to the jail, across the passage connecting the two buildings, which I have often regarded as a 'Bridge of Sighs,' the young burglar suddenly sprang over the low hand railing, which was then the only protection of the bridge, landed on his feet 45 feet below, and, recovering himself, made a bold dash for liberty. He started on a run north on Dearborn avenue, pursued by deputy sheriffs and policemen, and was finally recaptured in a barn not far from Lincoln park. When they brought him back, his face flushed, his eyes flashing, his shirt collar thrown open, he looked like a young hero of romance. A few days later he was taken to state's prison, where he served his term.

"Passing over the Clark street bridge there recurred to me the memory of another leap—one of life. One evening about five years ago approaching that bridge I found it open and a crowd of about 1,500 men and women in a state of excitement. A policeman informed me that a woman had fallen into the river. 'What's being done to save her?' I demanded. Before the officer had a chance to reply a young fellow rushed through the crowd, threw off his coat and vest, put his hands together and shot into the water. He caught the woman as she was going down the third time, struck out for the shore, and both he and she were landed in safety.

"I heard a man say to the rescuer, 'What's your name?' 'I have no name in which the public is interested,' he replied. 'But you're a hero,' urged the man, 'and your name deserves to be made known.' The young man shook his head and peremptorily refused to divulge his name. I happened to get a good look at the fellow, and there came to me a sudden flash of recognition. He was the same one who had made the leap for liberty from the Bridge of Sighs.

"Things went better with the young fellow after that," continued Mr. Mills. "He got on and prospered and is now a well to do commercial traveler."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Emotion of Grief In Animals.

Dutch was a brown retriever of advanced years. Curly was reputed to be a Scotch terrier, but his appearance suggested some uncertainty in his descent. Dutch was chained to her kennel, and Curly, who enjoyed his liberty, evinced his friendship by frequently taking bones and other canine delicacies to his less fortunate friend. One morning Curly presented himself at the house, evincing unmistakable signs of grief by his demeanor and his whines. A visit to the kennel, where poor Dutch was found lying dead, showed the occasion of Curly's unhappiness. We buried Dutch decently under a vine in the garden and supposed that Curly would forget the incident, but we were touched to see him in the capacity of faithful mourner often revisit the spot where his old friend was laid, taking with him, by way of offering, choice bones, which he carefully buried by the grave. This practice Curly continued for two years, when we left the house.—Cor London Spectator.

Photographing the Growth of Plants.

Photographing has lately been applied to record the movements of growing plants, and it is not necessary to add that some curious results have been obtained. A photograph of a growing hop vine, taken at intervals of 60 seconds, shows that the movements of the young stems consist of a succession of irregular circular and elliptical curves, which vary every minute, even as to direction. Photography has also proved, contrary to the old accepted idea, that plants grow continuously and uninterruptedly, even when asleep.—St. Louis Republic.

THE CAT CAME BACK.

Valu Attempts of an Ellenville Man to Get Rid of One Cat Too Many.

From the Ellenville Journal.

Lewis B. Hook, of this village, considers the homing instinct of the feline species something wonderful. Having one cat too many, last fall, he took the animal to a point at Ulster Heights, six miles from here, and dropped her by the roadside. She was at home next day. Two weeks ago he took the same animal for a drive so confined that she could not possibly take the bearings from observation. This time he sat her down in the woods of "Wildman Hill," about eighteen miles away. All the same, on Sunday last—two weeks later, the familiar "meow" of puss requested admittance at the door of the Hook domicile. "Lew" threatens now to send her with the next expedition to the North Pole.

"THE GIRL I LEFT BEHIND ME."

Opening Attraction at the Casino, Monday Evening.

"The Girl I Left Behind Me," which will be seen at the Casino Monday evening is one of the strongest bookings of the season, perhaps in the estimation of those familiar with the delineation, entirely the strongest. The play has been one of the greatest successes of the past three years thoroughout the entire country, and when it was produced in London a few months ago, (where it is still playing to enormous business,) it took that city by storm. The play deals with the military life of Post Kennion in the Blackfoot country, Montana, during the Indian uprising of 1890, and there are many scenes of an intense and exciting kind, particularly the one where the Indians attack the little garrison at sunrise.

The lighter side of the play rests on the love making of several couples all of whom are the young people of the garrison.

"A PAIR OF KIDS."

The restaurant scene in the "Kids," is said to be one continuous string of fun and pantomime tricks. The old "Jay," of course, runs the restaurant, and the thought of that Hay Seed County Jay running a city restaurant "his own way" causes roars of laughter. "YELLOW DOG FOR SALE."

Now, so very many years ago, when we were boys, the above notice attracted our attention, and a few days later, by the exchange of a jack knife, we became the proud possessor of the aforesaid animal.

Looking back at this transaction through the mists of nearly twenty-five years, we are absolutely sure the man who owned him took a base advantage of our boyish confidence. That dog was the meanest, most miserable, sneaking, cowardly cur that ever drew the breath of life. He would bark only when he was safe inside a fence. He would sneak behind when one was not looking and after a snap and snarl, with his narrative twixt his legs, run to cover. He would never stand and fight. He was never known to tackle a full grown cat, but he took great delight in killing little kittens or chickens. If a dog as big as his self showed up he couldn't be found for two hours after. If he was thrashed he would howl for half a day. He was so mean, sneaking and cowardly we finally gave him to the washerwoman, who, disgusted, killed him with an axe for eating the clothes from the line during the night.

In later years we have been occasionally reminded of our deceased canine friend. Some dogs and some men greatly resemble each other. A recent adv. in one of the city papers, forcibly reminds us of this dog. We took occasion recently through the courts to teach the writer of that adv. that he must be honest, at least part of the time. We had hoped the verdict of twelve men, good and true, would be remembered, but it is hard to "teach old dogs new tricks," like the yellow dog, he flies to cover and barks at us anonymously, saying what he would never for a moment, dare to say to us personally. Whenever you receive an anonymous communication you need have no difficulty in locating the breed of pups to which the writer belongs.

This particular bit of spleen was caused by the mention of the great success of Richmond Hill under our administration. Having failed, miserably failed, in every calling tried from preaching to peddling spring beds, he finds exquisite enjoyment in attacking us by anonymous advertising. What a confession of imbecility, weakness and cowardice! Sometimes we sympathise with the Pharisee and feel thankful.

But 'tis passing strange that there should be even one man in Middletown even though filled with gall and bitterness personally and realizing his own weakness and imbecility should not as a citizen, share in the enthusiasm of the one hundred fifty lot owners on Richmond Hill. One hundred fifty lots sold within six months; $75,000.00 worth of buildings erected. Work for carpenters, work for masons, work for laborers, houses for fifty more families. Every lot owner doubling and tripling his investment. Twelve new streets everybody pleased, everybody satisfied, but the yellow dog. 'Tis well. "He who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before is a public benefactor."

Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said,
'This is my own, my Middletown."

C. MACARDELL, JR., - BUSINESS MANAGER

SATURDAY, AUGUST 24, 1895.

Thomas C. Platt, of New York, was yesterday elected to head the Tioga county delegation to the Republican State convention.

The Schoharie Union, a Republican paper with more zeal than knowledge, attempts to excuse the high tax rate by saying that "the Republican Legislature did not steal the money; it only spent it."

The statement that Senator "Bill" Chandler "would not accept the nomination for the Vice-Presidency if offered to him on a gold plate," prompts the Elmira Gazette to say that even the Republican party would hardly dare offer the smirched Senator a nomination on a pitchfork.

Gold shipments to the amount of $1,100,000 were made, yesterday. Of this amount $935,000 was drawn from the Sub-Treasury. Bankers said, yesterday, that the sterling exchange market is weakening, and that the supply of cotton and grain bills is increasing, and they argue from this that the heavy gold shipments are about over.

Rochester has its share of Republican "harmony," just now. Ex-Congressman Van Voorhis and Superintendent of Public Works Aldridge are measuring strength for the control of the organization, and the feeling between them may be judged from a statement made by Mr. Van Voorhis, in New York, that "Aldridge is so deviliehly unpopular that even Democrats are afraid to be friendly with him."

As the time for holding the Republican convention in Pennsylvania draws near charges of bribery are becoming rife. They are made by both Quay and the anti-Quay combine, but the Quay men are more explicit in their allegations than their enemies. The latest story is that a Quay delegate from Westmoreland county has been offered $700 for his proxy and the three Quay delegates from Indiana county from $1,000 to $1,500 for their votes. It should be remembered that the combine is fighting Quay in the interest of purer politics.

DEMOCRATIC PROSPERITY

From the New York Herald.

With mills everywhere starting up or extending their operations, with wages advancing, deposits in savings banks increasing, the mails growing more weighty with correspondence, books, newspapers and merchandise—with these and other signs of returning prosperity the outlook is full of promise.

Letter Carriers' Convention

The annual session of the national association of letter carriers will be held in Philadelphia, September 2nd to 6 h inclusive. The association, which is represented in every first class office in the country, has an enrolled membership of 8,000 A feature of the opening session of this year's convention will be a parade of at least 3 500 uniformed letter carriers. Postmaster General Wilson, his assistant, Frank H. Jones, and other prominent officials of the post-office department will be present.

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

Returned from an Outing—A Hand Organ With a Monkey—Matrimonial Infelicity in Sullivan County—An Entirely New Woman.

From a Special Correspondent.

—The Misses May and Adelaide Grier have returned from the Catskills, where they have been spending a week.

—A hand organ, accompanied by a man with a trained monkey, created a wild sensation among the juvenile portion of the population of Goshen, yesterday.

—Apparently matrimony is sometimes a failure in Sullivan county as well as in other parts of the world, for a while ago a woman living in that county had her husband bound over to keep the peace, alleging as a reason that he had forced her to sit on a red hot stove. Now the husband appears as the injured party and has her arrested for breaking the furniture and tearing the paper from the walls. If a man expects to keep his wife in a good humor he really ought not to put her on a red hot stove, for everybody knows that extreme heat is always irritating to the temper, and we very much doubt whether anyone except an early christian martyr would even attempt to be pleasant under trying circumstances. Doubtless there were plenty of chairs in the house at the time, and if this Sullivan county husband wishes white winged peace to brood over his household in future he had better let his wife occupy one of them, at least during the summer months. If we are not mistaken it is Tennyson who says that the duty of man to woman is "To compass her about with sweet observances, to dress her beautifully and keep her true." If the Sullivan county man were weighed in this balance he would be found wanting. The most charitable person could not construe his putting his wife on a red hot stove into a "sweet observance," and if he had "dressed herbeautifully" he assuredly would not have placed her there on account of the expense, and as to "keeping her true," few could blame her if she left him for some one who had more fire in his heart for her and less in his eye and cooking stove.

—The writer, while reading a book by an English authoress, the other day, was very much struck by a description of a certain character in it who it was said to "suggest a singularly enchanting cross between a Greek nymph, a Scotch deerhound and a well bred Eton boy." We probably have seen some remarkable looking English women but never anything quite like this. It must be a new type and at once sets a person of a speculative mind to wondering where she will ever find her "soul's mate." By good rights he should be a bewilderingly fascinating combination of the Antinous, a pug dog and a lady like Vassar girl, or possibly she would be better pleased with an astonishingly magnetic mixture of a Greek god, a mastiff and a highly cultured Wellesly maiden. When one gets to mingling "black spirits and white, blue spirits and gray" together in such an extraordinary style one hardly knows where to stop.

From Our Goshen Correspondent.

Patrick Wintere, who resides on Montgomery street, in this village, tried unsuccessfully to commit suicide, yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock by taking Paris green. He has been on a spree for the past week, and was just recovering from its effects. He went on Golden Hill about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon to take a look at his garden, and among his garden fixtures were two bottles of Paris green, which he determined to take. He went to the residence of Mr. Keely which adjoins his garden and asked Mr. Keely's daughter for a glass of water. The girl suspected that he intended to do himself harm, but willingly gave him the glass and water. He returned to his garden and took the Paris green and went back to the Keely house and asked permission to sleep under a tree in their yard, which was granted him. The little girl noticed several spots of Paris green on his face and coat and called to her father who was working near by and Mr. Kelly succeeded in getting him home, and then started for Dr. Robinson, who went to Winter's house, but was unable to do anything for him until Policeman Elbers was sent for, and he with the assistance of several other men succeeded in overpowering the would-be-suicide. It took the doctor three hours to get all the Paris green from the man's stomach. After it was removed he was put to bed and went to sleep and will undoubtedly recover.

TO PLAY BALL.

A Match Arranged Between Goshen and Florida for the County Championship and $220.

Mr. Joe Hunter, manager of the Florida base ball club, met with Manage Hock, of the Goshen Athletic Club, at the St. Elmo in Goshen, last evening, and a match game was arranged between the clubs to be played at Goshen, Saturday, Aug. 31st.

Of course the principal dispute is the claim to the title of "Champions of Orange County," but to make the matter more binding a purse of $220 will be played for, Goshen donating the extra $20 in consideration of the game being played on Goshen's ground.

Jack Degnan, of this city, the Nester of the national game in this vicinity, was present at the meeting and was chosen by both sides as referee, purse-holder and umpire. He is to be paid $10 for his services.

This selection will meet with the approval of all the base ball cranks, for it is a conceded fact that no man in Orange county is better versed in the technicalities of the game.

Each club named twelve players, those from Goshen all being actual residents of the town of Goshen, while Florida named twelve from the town of Warwick. No "imported" talent will play on either team, and all substitutes must be chosen from the three extra men named.

Another point insisted upon by Manager Hunter was that there must be no postponement. The game will be played rain or shine, sick or well, Saturday, Aug. 31st.

A HOLIDAY TRAGEDY.

All my life I have been—well, not exactly a woman hater, but a firm believer in the idea that man is the lord of creation, and that woman is not an absolute necessity. For many years it was my proud boast that I was able to dispense with feminine aid and, yet live a very enjoyable life, as, with clockwork regularity, I went from my bachelor lodgings to business each morning, returning in the afternoon and spending the evening at the club or some place of amusement. The idea of having a lady companion in my rambles never entered my head.

True, my landlady—good old soul—prepared my meals and cleaned my rooms, but that was because I had not time to do it myself, and a manservant was beyond my means. But in all else I dispensed with woman's aid. Boot cleaning, sewing buttons on, lighting the fire, etc., were all done with my own hands—nay, at a pinch I have even washed a pocket handkerchief.

I desired to stand forth as a living example of the original Adam and a proof of the superfluity of the modern Eve. But my misguided companions refused to profit by my teachings or to follow my example. One by one they fell under female influence, one by one they married, and then—I cut them dead. Ah, me, those free bohemian days were happy ones, as year after year I pursued my adopted course in spite of the continual falling off of my comrades. Then came a time when my circle of acquaintances had decreased so considerably that I began to feel lonely. Bachelor chums were more difficult to find than ever. To loneliness succeeded melancholy, and I grew miserable and pessimistic.

One friend, to whom I laid bare my woes, said:

"You keep to yourself too much. What you ought to do is to lodge with some family where there are two or three grown up daughters. They would wake you up a bit."

This, to me, the hitherto ideal advocate of an Eveless Eden! And yet, after the advice had been tendered several times, I began to think that such a change might be beneficial. Such a course need not involve the rendering up of my tenets; but, as woman still formed a part of the world, she might at least contribute to my amusement. So, after very serious consideration, I decided to seek fresh apartments, with light society thrown in.

Now my troubles commenced. I could not make the direct inquiry, "Have you any grown up daughters." So I generally viewed the rooms, listening to the landlady's verbiage, settled the rent, and then casually asked, "Have you any children?" and the reply would be: "Yes, 'four,' 'five,' or 'six'" (as the case might be); "the eldest is 10 years old and the youngest two months. But they are as good as gold and never make a bit of noise."

The numberless journeys I made and the many desultory conversations I listened to were all to no purpose. No one appeared to possess grown up daughters—the eldest was always 10. Just when I was about to abandon my search, fortune—or was it fate?—led me to Myrtle Villa, Paradise gardens, Upper Dulwich. The door was opened by a vision of loveliness, faultlessly dressed, and with bright blue eyes and golden hair. "Newly married," thought I. "Well, here at least the eldest won't be ten!" She invited me in, and then disappeared, a middle aged lady entering directly after. We proceeded to discuss terms. Then came the inevitable inquiry as to children

"I have two grown up daughters, the younger of whom opened the door to you."

At last! Need I say that, within a week, I was installed in Myrtle Villa? The landlady, a widow, was a genial, homely woman, and the youngest daughter, Annie, aged 25, I have already described, but the other daughter, Julia, did not impress me favorably. She was neither good looking nor pleasing, and, without being exactly bad tempered, always insisted upon having her own way.

I now seemed to be in a new world. My boots bore a brilliant luster each morning without my aid, and my slippers were laid ready for me in the evening, and as for lending me a needle and cotton—the idea!—if I would only leave them outside, they would only be too happy.

I no longer needed to seek relaxation at the club after the labors of the day. Julia played the piano well, her only accomplishment, while Annie sang divinely, and thus the evenings passed all too quickly. Male acquaintances they did not seem to possess. Yet, stay, there was one—a Mr Malcolm, whose name I frequently heard mentioned, but as his calls were always made in the daytime I never saw him. I had rapidly passed into that condition of mind which raised a feeling of jealousy on his account, so one day I questioned my landlady on the subject.

"Oh, he's a very old friend of ours. Once we thought he would have proposed to Julia, but nothing came of it."

So time went pleasantly on, and then—how can I confess it?—my lifelong creed was thrown to the winds, my proud ambition humbled in the dust, and I became a willing slave to the sex I had so long despised and ignored. My only thought now was how and in what words I should beseech my darling Annie to become my wife. Time after time I was on the point of speaking, but Julia always turned up at the critical moment.

One evening Julia announced that a week thence she had an engagement to play at a concert. Then burst upon me a brilliant inspiration. I purchased two stall tickets for the Lyceum for that same evening, and making pretense that I had had them given to me I persuaded Annie to promise to accompany me. This time Julia would not be able to intrude, and I should know my fate. In two months' time I should be taking my summer holiday, which would fit in just nicely for the honeymoon.

On the eventful day I hastened homeward with a queer fluttering in my heart and a flower spray for Annie in my hat. Julia opened the door, and hardly permitted me to enter before she informed me that Annie had been out in the hot sun and had been obliged to go to bed with a very bad sick headache. My fluttering heart gave one huge bound and then seemed to stand still. However, to disguise my feelings, I said:

"I am sorry, and you have to play at the concert?"

"No," she replied, "the concert has been postponed."

"Then may I beg the pleasure of your company? I did not ask you before because of the concert engagement."

"Thanks! I shall enjoy it immensely."

What a miserable failure that evening proved to be! I do not even know what the play was called. I was thinking all the time of my poor, sick darling, and not of the acting or the woman who sat by my side wearing the flower spray that was meant for Annie.

The words were still unspoken when my holidays arrived, and tearing myself away from the two sisters who stood at the gate and waved their handkerchiefs as long as I remained in sight it was with no feelings of joyful anticipation that I betook myself to Hastings for rest and recreation.

Rest! Where could I find it? Not on the parade or pier amid hundreds of couples promenading, as I had pictured Annie and myself doing; not on the beach, where the Ethiopian musicians were eternally playing "Annie Laurie," "Sweet Annie Rooney," or "Annie, Dear, I'm Called Away." For a whole week I wandered aimlessly hither and thither. Then I could stand it no longer. So I wrote a long letter commencing "Darling," and pouring out the impassioned, pent up love that comes but once in a man's lifetime, I besought and beseeched her to take pity upon me, or my lifeless body should surge in the billows that beat relentlessly on the rocks of Beachy head.

When I had finished, I happened to catch sight of a photograph which I had purchased the previous day, representing one of the yachts preparing to start on her morning trip, with my own figure in a prominent position in the bow. "Ah," thought I, "I'll send that to Julia."

If it were possible I had now less rest than before, night or day, while waiting for the answer. Rising in the morning with haggard looks and burning brow, the other boarders would remark that the sea air did not seem to agree with me, while under the mask of assumed indifference there raged within me the fiercest volcano that ever burned in the heart of man.

At last the reply came, and, bounding up to the privacy of my own room, with trembling fingers I tore open the envelope which hid from me—life or death?

"Dearest, I am yours forever. I cannot say your proposal was unexpected, for I have felt that you could mean nothing less ever since that evening when you so openly expressed your preference by taking me to the theater"—

What, whew, where! I looked at the signature, "Julia." Oh, heavens, I saw it all! I had placed them in the wrong envelopes and sent the letter to Julia and the photograph to Annie! How I raged and fumed and tore my hair, until at last, in sheer exhaustion, I sank into a chair and endeavored to finish reading the letter.

"Annie thanks you very much for the photo, and she desires me to tell you that yesterday Mr Malcolm proposed to her and was accepted. We will have the two weddings on the same day. Won't that be nice, dear?"

Nice! This was the last straw. Nice indeed for me to be married to a woman I did not care for, and at the same time to see the one I loved given to another man. I cannot remember what I did for the next hour or two beyond cursing my foolishness and swearing I wouldn't marry Julia. Then, when I became calmer, I saw an action for breach of promise looming. I thought of all my hard earned savings of years being swept away by a sympathetic jury to heal Julia's broken heart. There was no escape for me. She had my letter, which simply commenced "Darling," and as no name was mentioned in it from beginning to end was it possible that any body of intelligent men could be brought to believe that I intended it for Annie when I addressed the envelope to Julia? No, no! I must go through with it. I would marry Julia. Yes, and I would teach her that man is the lord of creation, and that woman is but a helpmate and not an equal, and so, in my married life, triumphantly assert those principles which I had held so long.

* * * * * *

Julia married me at the same time and place as Annie became Mrs. Malcolm. I now spend my evenings endeavoring to solve a difficult problem, and that is, Why do they call woman the weaker sex?—London Tit-Bits.

WOMEN'S FACES—like flowers, fade and wither with time; the bloom of the rose is only known to the healthy woman's cheeks. The nervous strain caused by the ailments and pains peculiar to the sex, and the labor and worry of rearing a family, can often be traced by the lines in the woman's face. Dull eyes, the sallow or wrinkled face and those "feelings of weakness" have their rise in the derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. The functional derangements, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of women, can be cured with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For the young girl just entering womanhood, for the mother and those about to become mothers, and later in "the change of life," the "Prescription" is just what they need; it aids nature in preparing the system for the change. It's a medicine prescribed for thirty years, in the diseases of women, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure the chronic inflammation of the lining membranes which cause such exhausting drains upon the system. It cures nervous prostration, sleeplessness, faintness, nervous debility and all disorders arising from derangement of the female organs and functions.

MRS. WILLIAMS.

MRS JENNIE WILLIAMS, of Mohawk, Lane Co., Oregon, writes: "I was sick for over three years with blind dizzy spells, palpitation of the heart, pain in the back and head, and at times would have such a weak tired feeling when I first got up in the morning, and at times nervous chills.

The physicians differed as to what my disease was, but none of them did me any good. As soon as I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I began to get better; could sleep well nights, and that bad, nervous feeling and the pain in my back soon left me. I can walk several miles without getting tired. I took in all three bottles of 'Prescription' and two of 'Discovery.'"

Resuming duty too soon, with the care of so many sick, I did not regain my health, and in a month I became so debilitated and nervous from sleeplessness and the drafts made on my vitality, that it was a question if I could go on. A dear friend advised me to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I took 2 bottles and am happy to say, I am in better health than ever. I still continue its occasional use, as a nerve food, as my work is very trying. A letter addressed to Milwaukee, Wis., will reach me."

On the eventful day I hastened homeward with a queer fluttering in my heart and a flower spray for Annie in my hat. Julia opened the door, and hardly permitted me to enter before she informed me that Annie had been out in the hot sun and had been obliged to go to bed with a very bad sick headache. My fluttering heart gave one huge bound and then seemed to stand still. However, to disguise my feelings, I said:

"I am sorry, and you have to play at the concert?"

"No," she replied, "the concert has been postponed."

"Then may I beg the pleasure of your company? I did not ask you before because of the concert engagement."

"Thanks! I shall enjoy it immensely."

What a miserable failure that evening proved to be! I do not even know what the play was called. I was thinking all the time of my poor, sick darling, and not of the acting or the woman who sat by my side wearing the flower spray that was meant for Annie.

The words were still unspoken when my holidays arrived, and tearing myself away from the two sisters who stood at the gate and waved their handkerchiefs as long as I remained in sight it was with no feelings of joyful anticipation that I betook myself to Hastings for rest and recreation.

Rest! Where could I find it? Not on the parade or pier amid hundreds of couples promenading, as I had pictured Annie and myself doing; not on the beach, where the Ethiopian musicians were eternally playing "Annie Laurie," "Sweet Annie Rooney," or "Annie, Dear, I'm Called Away." For a whole week I wandered aimlessly hither and thither. Then I could stand it no longer. So I wrote a long letter commencing "Darling," and pouring out the impassioned, pent up love that comes but once in a man's lifetime, I besought and beseeched her to take pity upon me, or my lifeless body should surge in the billows that beat relentlessly on the rocks of Beachy head.

When I had finished, I happened to catch sight of a photograph which I had purchased the previous day, representing one of the yachts preparing to start on her morning trip, with my own figure in a prominent position in the bow. "Ah," thought I, "I'll send that to Julia."

If it were possible I had now less rest than before, night or day, while waiting for the answer. Rising in the morning with haggard looks and burning brow, the other boarders would remark that the sea air did not seem to agree with me, while under the mask of assumed indifference there raged within me the fiercest volcano that ever burned in the heart of man.

At last the reply came, and, bounding up to the privacy of my own room, with trembling fingers I tore open the envelope which hid from me—life or death?

"Dearest, I am yours forever. I cannot say your proposal was unexpected, for I have felt that you could mean nothing less ever since that evening when you so openly expressed your preference by taking me to the theater"—

What, whew, where! I looked at the signature, "Julia." Oh, heavens, I saw it all! I had placed them in the wrong envelopes and sent the letter to Julia and the photograph to Annie! How I raged and fumed and tore my hair, until at last, in sheer exhaustion, I sank into a chair and endeavored to finish reading the letter.

"Annie thanks you very much for the photo, and she desires me to tell you that yesterday Mr Malcolm proposed to her and was accepted. We will have the two weddings on the same day. Won't that be nice, dear?"

Nice! This was the last straw. Nice indeed for me to be married to a woman I did not care for, and at the same time to see the one I loved given to another man. I cannot remember what I did for the next hour or two beyond cursing my foolishness and swearing I wouldn't marry Julia. Then, when I became calmer, I saw an action for breach of promise looming. I thought of all my hard earned savings of years being swept away by a sympathetic jury to heal Julia's broken heart. There was no escape for me. She had my letter, which simply commenced "Darling," and as no name was mentioned in it from beginning to end was it possible that any body of intelligent men could be brought to believe that I intended it for Annie when I addressed the envelope to Julia? No, no! I must go through with it. I would marry Julia. Yes, and I would teach her that man is the lord of creation, and that woman is but a helpmate and not an equal, and so, in my married life, triumphantly assert those principles which I had held so long.

* * * * * *

Julia married me at the same time and place as Annie became Mrs. Malcolm. I now spend my evenings endeavoring to solve a difficult problem, and that is, Why do they call woman the weaker sex?—London Tit-Bits.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

Mr. Nathanael Mortonson, a well-known citizen of Ishpeming, Mich., and editor Superior Posten, who, for a long time, suffered from the most excruciating pains of rheumatism, was cured, eight years ago, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, having never felt a twinge of it since.

Dr. Miles' Pain Pills, "One cent a dose."

He Was Grateful.

"Excuse me," he said as he stopped a policeman on Michigan avenue at 11 o'clock at night, "but I want to make a few inquiries."

"All right—go ahead," was the reply.

"Fourth of July has come and gone, hasn't it?"

"Of course."

"I thought so, but wasn't sure. What's the next holiday?"

"Thanksgiving."

"When does it come?"

"About the 25th of November. Aren't you up on holidays?"

"No. On the contrary, I'm way off on 'em. I forgot all about New Year's 'till it was a week old—forgot all about Christmas till after New Year's, and it never struck me that Fourth of July till about an hour ago."

"You must be a very busy man," remarked the officer.

"Yes, very busy. Let's see? You say the next holiday is Thanksgiving?"

"Yes."

"Come about the 25th of November?"

"Yes."

"Just let me take a pencil and a piece of paper, will you?"

The officer handed them out, and the man placed them against the wall of a saloon and made a memorandum and said:

"That's it—thanks. I've got it down here and will look out for it. Thanksgiving—November—about the 25th—don't miss it. Officer, I thank you again."

"Oh! That's all right."

"But I am grateful to you—shall be grateful to the last day of my life. You have answered my questions—you have told me when to look out for Thanksgiving—you have put me in the way of enjoying myself on one of the most historic holidays. Officer, I cannot reward you with gold or diamonds, but you will have the satisfaction of feeling that I am your well wisher from this hour until the sods of earth are pressed down on your silent heart. Let's see? Thank-giving—November—about the 25th—keep your eye peeled. Officer, a humble and grateful fellow man wishes you a long and lingering good night."—Detroit Free Press.

—Life.

At a Disadvantage.

"I have come this evening, Miss Mildred," began the youth, fingering his hat nervously and clearing his throat, "to ask you—that is"—

He cleared his throat again, swallowed a lump that seemed to go down hard, and resumed:

"I came this evening to—tell you, Miss Mildred, that—h'm—that whether I—h'm—ever come again or not will depend on your reply to what I—to what I came to say this evening."

"Why, Mr. Spoonamore," said the young lady "what can you mean?"

"I mean, Miss Biliwink—Miss Mildred—that the time has come when I can no longer—h'm—can no longer pretend to hide from myself the knowledge that I—h'm—have become too deeply interested in you to endure the thought that some other man—h'm—ahem—some other man may win the prize on which I have set my heart."

His voice was growing more husky, but he went on:

"I feel that I am laboring under a disadvantage, Miss Mildred, and yet—h'm—if you knew the strength of the—h'm—of the feeling that moves me—that compels me, I might say, to run the risk of—h'm—of seeming to be in too big a hurry you would understand why I have come to say—h'm—to say what I have come to say this evening. H'm."

"Don't you think, Mr. Spoonamore"—

"Miss Mildred, a man in my condition doesn't think! He can't think. He can only—h'm—he can only feel. That is—h'm—what ails me. If you would—would only—h'm—help me out"—

"Mr. Spoonamore," said the young woman, in whose eyes there shone the light of a sweet and tender pity, "if I had your voice, I would go and get it sand papered."—Chicago Tribune.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I have been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely medicine; a few bottles of it have cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." A NEW FEATURE.

A Baby Show and Baby Parade at the Orange County Fair.

The fifty-fifth annual fair of the Orange County Agricultural Society will be held at Newburgh, Sept. 17–21. There will be the usual full exhibit of live stock, dogs, poultry, fancy goods, miscellaneous articles, etc. Also two entirely new departments—one of cats, the other of babies.

The Newburgh Register has the latter in charge, and its work has been sanctioned by the board of directors of the society. There will be two departments, one of contest of beauty, the other of parade of ornamented carriages, similar to that given year after year with such great success at Asbury Park, where 50,000 people assembled, a few weeks ago, to witness the parade. The limit of age for babies has been placed at two-and-a-half years for the baby exhibit of beauty. No limit is placed on the age of children admitted in the parade. No charge will be made for entries, blanks for which are obtainable at the ARGUS office.

When the entry has been received by the Register it will send a ticket bearing the entry number for identification, with certificate that will secure the holder a free ticket of admission to the grounds when presented to the ticket department. Photographer W. H. Mapes, of Newburgh, will also give to each mother a cabinet photograph of the baby exhibited, free of charge. The Register will give a cup valued at $30, made to order, as one of the prizes, and there will be many other prizes.

THE SUMMITVILLE MURDER.

Witness Jean Andreux Balled—McComb Realizes His Position.

Jean Andreux, the bear trainer who was committed to jail as a witness against James McComb in the Summitville shooting case has been released. The French consul in New York interested himself in the man's behalf and helped him give bonds for his appearance at court in September.

The Watchman says that "McComb begins to realize his position and his foolish and wretched act appears to him in a different coloring than on the night of the murder. He is not very prepossessing in appearance and is not very smart, but he had sense enough to know that he would need the services of a good lawyer and accordingly wrote to W. F. O'Neill, of Middletown, imploring him to defend him. Mr. O'Neill came up on Monday and took charge of the defense. McComb had formerly been a client of his."

FELL FROM A CAR.

Mrs. D. C. Roe Has Her Leg Broken Near Mechanictown.

Mrs. D. C. Roe, of No. 6 Knapp avenue, was a passenger on car No. 2 on its way from the Park about 4:30 o'clock, yesterday afternoon. Near the Mechanictown bridge, while endeavoring to change her seat, she stepped from the foot board of the car and fell to the ground, sustaining a fracture of the ankle. She was picked up and taken on the car to the corner of Knapp and Wickham avenues, from which point she was carried to her home.

Abandoned Her Babe.

Early yesterday morning, two workmen passing along a lonely mountain road, back of Haverstraw, found a pretty, richly dressed month old baby lying by the roadside. A young woman, apparently of wealth and refinement, who carried a baby in her arms, was seen to leave a West Shore train at Haverstraw, Thursday evening, and later was seen on the road on which the child was found. The baby was apparently no worse for its exposure.

Miss Vandemark's Baby Dead.

The infant daughter of Miss Fannie Vandermark, which she abandoned on the lawn of the Rogers place, in Newburgh, in June last, died Aug. 15th, of cholera infantum, at the home of its grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vandermark, at Walden.

Arrested for Slander.

Henry Brendon, Jr., was arrested, Tuesday, by Sheriff Watson, of Monticello, in an action for slander, brought against him by Miss Minnie Murphy. Brendon was formerly employed by David Maxey, of Pleasant Lake, and Miss Murphy is now in his employ.

The Shakers have made a discovery which is destined to accomplish much good. Realizing that three-fourths of all our sufferings arise from stomach troubles, that the country is literally filled with people who cannot eat and digest food, without subsequently suffering pain and distress, and that many are starving, wasting to mere skeletons, because their food does them no good, they have devoted much study and thought to the subject, and the result is this discovery of their digestive Cordial.

A little book can be obtained from your druggist that will point out the way of relief at once. An investigation will cost nothing and will result in much good.

Children all hate to take Castor Oil, but not LAXOL, which is palatable.

MAKING THEMSELVES AT HOME.

Picnickers at Midway Park Who Spread Their Lunches in the Restaurant.

Some of the people who go to the park with picnic parties seem to think that the privileges of the restaurant are theirs without charge. Wednesday, a party of a dozen or more went into the restaurant and told Mr. Musbach they wanted tables as near together as possible. He assigned them to tables in the corner of the restaurant, expecting of course that they would order meals.

His surprise may be imagined when he saw them carry in the baskets and spread their lunch on the tables, which they occupied for more than an hour and then left without saying "thank you."

A few days before two ladies came in and spread their lunch on one of the tables, and then called for a glass of water each. Of course it was furnished. When they were about to leave one of the ladies asked for another glass of water and said:

"You are very accommodating here."

"Yes," replied Mr. Musbach, "We try to be, but we don't make much money out of it."

If the ladies saw the point, Mr. Musbach is not aware of it.

LECTURE BY REV. DR. KATZ.

The Franco-Prussian War His Theme—Illustrated by Stereopticon Views.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Katz will deliver a lecture about the Franco-Prussian war, illustrated by fifty enormous stereopticon pictures, ten feet square, Tuesday night, at 8 p. m., in the Assembly Rooms.

The doctor having had great success in New York city, is going to travel all through the German crowded cities. For this purpose he has engaged a friend of his as manager, who is now traveling and making arrangements. The doctor says that he will probably deliver the same lecture, next week, in the English language in one of our churches. We are sure that both lectures will be well attended, as the subject is a most interesting one and the doctor has many friends in this city. No German should fail to see the exhibition and hear the lecture, Tuesday evening.

GAME LAW NOTES

When Squirrels and Rabbits May Lawfully be Shot.

The law permits the shooting of black and gray squirrels from September 1st to December 31st.; rabbits from October 1st to March 1st. Quail may be shot during November and December.

Several papers have made the statement that squirrels could not be lawfully shot until October 1st but the above dates are taken from the revised game laws of 1895.

LOST A LEG.

The Penalty of Trying to Board a Moving Train.

James Black, a stone cutter at Parker's Glen, attempted to board a moving train, Thursday night, and fell with one leg on the rail. The member was crushed from the knee to the ankle. He was taken to the hospital in Port Jervis, where his leg was amputated, yesterday morning.

The Sussex County Peach Crop.

The Deckertown Independent says that a blight of some kind has done considerable damage to peach orchards south of the Papakating Valley. In Lafayette, the crop, will be half what it ought to be. The dry weather has also injured the crop. The biggest yields will be from orchards in the vicinity of Beemerville where the crop is finer than ever before. The Ayers Brothers expect to market 15,000 bushels.

Robbed by Highwaymen.

Daniel Terwilliger while on his way from Newburgh to Plattekill, Thursday night, was held up and robbed of $100 by highwaymen. He was dragged from his wagon and choked into submission. His horse went on home and when the robbers were through with Mr. Terwilliger he was permitted to go.

This cured me after doctor's prescriptions had failed to have any effect. I have also heard of fine results from others who have used it." Sold by J. E. Mills druggist, Middletown, N. Y.

THE ASYLUM LINE FRANCHISE.

The People Growling at the Dunderheadism of the Council in Delaying the Extension.

The people are not yet done talking about the action of the Common Council, Monday night, in refusing a franchise for the extension of the electric road to the State Hospital. It is needless to say that the talk is all one way,—condemnatory of the members of the Council who were responsible for the defeat of the resolution of Mr. Hirst.

Mr. Mance, who, it is understood, is a candidate for Alderman-at-Large and who owes his election to his present position largely to the votes of the people at the Hospital and along the proposed route of the extension, started the discussion that resulted in the defeat of the measure and cannot escape his share of responsibility. Mr. Sinsabaugh, the other Alderman from the Second Ward, who was expected to look after the interests of his constituents was not present, but has not been excused on that account for it was understood that he was to be there and offer the resolution granting the franchise, and he has not yet come forward to explain his absence.

But Mr. Reed, the oracle, and the acknowledged leader of the majority, whose vote killed the resolution comes in for the greatest share of condemnation for the delay in the building of the Asylum extension which everybody in Middletown has wanted to see built since the first tracks were laid in the city.

The question of a route having been settled, there was no longer an excuse for delay. The company had men employed to do the work and was ready to commence as soon as the franchise was granted, and but for the child's play, Monday night, the work would have been well along by this time.

Mr. Bastian has returned to town, and should he and Mr. Sinsabaugh attend the meeting Thursday night it is hoped they will help to undo the mischief already done so that the asylum road can be built this fall.

One good result of the child's play, Monday night, is that the city is using a part of the $7,000 appropriated for general street work in making necessary repairs, the Traction Company's willingness to do its share when the city was ready to act with it making it almost compulsory upon the city authorities to do long neglected and much needed work. "It's an ill wind that blows no man good."

Three Fingers Badly Smashed.

A lad named Ziadel, an apprentice at the O. and W. shops, had the tips of three fingers of his left hand, badly lacerated, in the cogwheel of a belt machine, yesterday afternoon. He was attempting to clean the oil from the cogs while the machinery was in motion.

Life Insurance Paid.

Supt. G. H. Peterson, of the Industrial Benefit Association, paid to Mrs. Henrietta W. Foss, yesterday, $550 in full settlement of claim on the life of her daughter, the late Blanche Foss.

Low Water in the Beaverkill.

From the Walton Reporter.

The Beaverkill has been so low this summer that the suckers have worn the scales off from their bellies trying to make a living.

A Woman Hung.

Around the neck of her husband and begged and implored him to go immediately and reserve seats for the pretty and young soubrette, Lillian Kennedy, in "A Midnight Frolic." Few actresses at her age are endowed with such transcendent talent; in the whole range of the drama she shines resplendent, exciting tears of laughter at will, and with an ease and absence of effort that disarms criticism.

She sings a ballad or comic song, dances a graceful skirt dance or break down, and all she does is imbued with the spirit of an innate artist, a thorough musician; endowed with youth and uncommon beauty, she seems destined at no distant day to reach the very pinnacle of dramatic eminence.

THE K. OF P. CLAM BAKE.

It Will Be a Big Affair—Grocers to Close for Half a Day.

The K. of P. clambake at Midway Park, on Aug. 28th, will be, if the weather permits, one of the best affairs of the kind ever held at the park. There will be no lack of provisions and the bake will be managed by an expert.

The Wheelman's races take place on the same day and the arrangements will be such that those who come to the races from out of town can also take in the bake.

The following grocers have agreed to close their stores at noon on that day so that they and their clerks can take in the bake.
